DESCRIPTION

Carafe in transparent Murano Glass

Bring this typical Murano design to your table, with its joyful murrine and original shape. It has been handmade in Murano following the ancient Murano glass techniques.

In the Murano kilns, the maestros and serventi during the breaks from production had the habit of having fun forging the glasses that they then used at the table. The material they used was the same as the fabulous sculptures that came out every day from the forges of Murano.

Today it has become all the rage to set tables by decorating them with these imaginative and very colorful objects. □

We receive requests every day from all over the world, which is why we have decided to put into production a new series of glasses in fascinating colors and shapes. □

Each series celebrates one of the masters who made the history of artistic glass on our island.

Any minor defect or variation from what is shown is to be considered as a proof of craftsmanship of the product.
